New Hard-Hitting Tank Shown Off By British Army

LONDON (AP) - The British army today demonstrated its latest battle tank-the 50-ton Chieftain, claimed to be the hardesthitting tank in the world.

The Chieftain has a 120-millimeter gun as main armament and can run on all types of fuel. "In my view it is at least five years ahead of any other tank available to NATO," said Maj. Gen. W.M. Hutton, director-general of fighting vehicles.

"It can kill all known tanks in the world at ranges at which it is relatively immune itself and also do all the other tasks of a tank superlatively well."

Farm Research Spending

With a farm food surplus in this country there's a temptation to cut off spending tax money that contributes to the surplus. It seems a sensible economy on the surface, but not when you get below the surface into the complexities of farm research and development.

The case for the opposition was started in the pleasant shade of the oaks and pines at Marion Park at Norway by Dr. Arthur Mauch, Michigan State University farm economist, for the hundreds of persons attending the recent fourth annual Upper Peninsula Farm Management Tour.

Dr. Mauch prefaced his remarks with a report that 7 of every 10 crop varieties grown today were unknown 20 years ago. Anyone tempted to think that the new products in this country are all Chevies or Galaxies can see that there's been a change in farm produce as radical as that in industry: that it may still be wheat or wood flour or beggies, but that it's been transformed.

For every $1 spent by the Department of Agriculture on utilization research, said Dr. Mauch, manifold benefits are realized. This type of research studies modification of agricultural products to develop new products for food, feed and industrial usage.

Between 1940 and 1960, the average benefit-cost ratio was 15 to 1. In this period Congress appropriated $170 million for utilization research and development. Among the things which came out of it were:

Soybean meal as a major livestock and poultry feed. Special finishes for wash-wear cotton fabrics.

A frozen concentrate citrus juice process. Pioneering in dehydrofreezing and time-temperature studies of frozen fruits and vegetables.

Fruit powders.

High moisture prunes and figs.

Dehydrated potatoes.

Improved flavor and stability of soybean oil, expanding its food usage.

Epoxy plasticizers from seed oil and fats. Improved quality of oleic acid. Use of tallow for tinning and cold rolling of steel. Improved fermentation for producing penicillin. Dextran, a blood plasma extender.

And many more. Last year, two million bushels of Haven peaches developed by Michigan State University outsold their competitors by 61 cents a bushel, a total of about $1,250,000 in one year due to research, said Dr. Mauch. If farmers used 1940 methods today, he said, it would cost an extra $13 billion a year to produce food and fiber for the nation. This extra cost would add $5 a week to each family's bill for farm products. The bill for all agricultural research in the last 100 years, he said, paid by state and federal governments and by industry, is less than half of this ment under strict international notice if it considers its supreme annual saving to the public.

Sandra Jean Green And Arthur Richardson, Wed

NEWBERRY-Before the altar of the First Methodist Church here Saturday at 8 p. m., Miss Sandra Jean Green became the bride of Arthur Leroy Richardson of Battle Creek, in a double-ring candlelight ceremony performed by the Rev. Emmett Coons.

The bride is the daughter of the Lloyd Greens of 205 W. Harrie St., her husband is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clare Richardson of 800 Hidalgo Circle NW, Albuquerque, N.

The bride was attired in a ballerina length gown of bouffant taffeta, folding away from a panel of chantilly lace in the bouffant skirt front. The lace bodice had a square neckline and bracelet sleeves. The set-in cummerbund waist was enhanced by a butterfly bow at the back. Advertising helped it happen

By stimulating mass demand, advertising helped create a mass market for portable typewriters. As demand grew. more and more were made. The more of them made, the less each cost. Result: new and better portable typewriters mass produced for more people at lower prices by America's remarkable and competitive economic system. Is this worthwhile? Then, so is advertising worthwhile.

The varsity, coached by Jerry Cvengros and Har- sixth consecutive year in the this morning, and if they won, old Johnson, is looking for another fine season with seven junior and American Legion State Tourna- they will meet Detroit Edison at three sophomore lettermen returning from last year's squad.

A big job for the coaches will be finding replacements for Jim Almonroeder graduated quarterback, who fired 59 complete passes in 119 attempts good for 864 yards last season. Possible boys in line for the spot will be Sam Oslund, Mike Gafner or last year's Jayvee quarterback, Jerry Hanson, A big reason Almonroeder was so successful last season was that he had the two top ends in the Upper Peninsula working for him. Ron Gauthier, who grabbed 31 passes for 119 yards, made the U.P. team, and was named to the All-State first team. Dave Hunter pulled down 24 passes for 397 yards, and the U. P. coaches named him to their first team. So the Eskymo passing game will need some polishing up with these boys going off to college.

In the running game its a different story. The top three ground Gauthier collected three hits in gainers are back this year, and two of them will also be back the five at-bats, including a single in following year. Terry Dufour, a senior this year, was the high scorer the fifth driving in two runs, on last year's squad with 25 points, and he promises to be a real long homer over the center field workhorse. The two returning juniors are speedy Jim Clairmont and fence in the seventh with two Chuck Brookes. Both boys are more experienced and stronger this mates aboard for three more runs, year, and they, along with Dufour, should provide a good running game for the Eskymos. Dufour averaged 6.5 yards in 39 carries last

Other returning lettermen are juniors Dale Horchner, who was second on the team last season with 74 tackles, ends Wally Schultz and George Hansen, guard Bob Hengesh and center Glenn Fleetwood. Dave Boileau is another returning letter-winner at fullback. He's a junior this year. A big loss in the defensive wall this year will be the graduation of Dick Allingham, who was named to the All-State team as a tackle in his junior year, and rough-tough Ralph Rivard, who led the team in total tackles last

Snyder Takes 2nd In Spite Of Walker

BALTIMORE (AP) - Pitcher Jerry Walker of the Cleveland Indians must have set an unofficial record Tuesday night-for frustration, if nothing else.

With Russ Snyder of the Baltimore Orioles on first base in the eighth inning, Walker threw one strike to batter Bob Saverine. Then, before making another pitch to the plate. Walker made eight unsuccessful attempts to pick Snyder off base. On the next pitch to Saverine, Snyder stole second.

Caravans Create Fun For Retirees route from Bemidji, Minn., to the Gaspe Peninsula in Eastern

Caravan" probably means little to country most persons, but to a growing number of confirmed trailerites it spells fun in capital letters. who look forward to specific per- ed by New York banks. iods during the year when they hitch up their homes and take off for a meeting with their brethren.

Such a meeting might attract fewer than 50 families or it might find 2.000 trailers pulled together in a temporary city. It might be just a long weekend, or it might

On occasion, groups of varying size strike out in single file for caravan trip through South America, Canada, Mexico, Europe Africa or around the world, not unlike a modern Conestoga wagon train heading for the untracked

These part-time nomads of the 20th century have several things in common. They like to travel (with trailers), see new places and new faces (in the company of old friends) and they all own lookalike Airstream trailers.

They have another thing that binds them together-membership in the Wally Byam Caravan Club a group founded by and named for the late Wally Byam, who designed the trailers and headed Airstream, Inc., until his death

Michigan members of the clubthere are over 200 of them-have had three rallies to attend so far this year, with their fourth and final one scheduled for Plymouth on the Labor Day weekend, tied in with that city's annual Fall

Most of the Michigan club members will be on hand to help set up camp at Plymouth's Junior High School, east on Mill Road near M-14 (Ann Arbor Road), for this last rally of the season. A typical program will be provided, including a square dance, pancake breakfast, travelogue movies, sightseeing and participation in the Plymouth festival.

Members of the Michigan club did much the same thing in Hastings in May and in Alpena in Then, the week of the Fourth of July, they spent a week in Bemidji, Minn., as part of the huge Sixth International Rally of the Wally Byam Caravan Club. Altogether, there were over 2,000 trailers (about 7,000 persons) on acre tract on the Beltrami County fairgrounds, setting up a goodsize temporary city in the process

Byam began his caravanning for two reasons. He liked to travel and he wanted to show his customers how to get the most enjoyment out of their trailers.

The idea caught on and grew from a handful of persons to an organization of over 8,000 families (about 25,000 persons) with a fulltime executive director and active dues-paying members in each of the 50 states, Canada, Australia, England and points in between.

Today, the Airstream firm continues to lend support and guidance to the 62 local units and chapters of the club, but each unit is a self-governing one within the broad outlines of the international constitution. Bulletins, maps and all sorts of informational materials flow between the national headquarters in Bakersfield, Calif., and the various local units, providing every type of information the club needs.

Currently in the works is a program aimed at providing "Land Yacht Harbors"-a series of recreational trailer parks in the nation's vacation lands and a network of stop-over points along major cross-country routes for all Airstream owner

Byam led all the caravans in their early years. Then as the interest spread, he confined himself to major trips. In 1951-2 and 1958, he led caravans through Central America; in 1956 and 1960, through Europe; every year from 1952 through 1960, he led one through Eastern and Western Canada and Mexico. Probably the greatest of his caravans was a nine-month tour during 1959-60 from Capetown, South Africa, to Cairo, Egypt.

Even this great trek is about to be overshadowed, however, as a group of about 50 caravanners are
